

The University of North Texas
College of Visual Arts and Design and the Nasher Sculpture Center present:

The Patsy R. and Raymond D. Nasher
Lecture Series in Contemporary
Sculpture and Criticism

Booker T. Washington School for the Performing and Visual Arts.
Photo by: Hélène Binet.

Speaker:

Brad Cloepfil

Tuesday, February 3, 2009

Reception: 6:00 pm

Lecture: 7:00 pm

Nasher Sculpture Center Auditorium

2001 Flora Street

Dallas, TX

The lecture is free and open to the public, but seating is limited and many seats are reserved.

Admission the night of the lecture is by ticket on a first come, first served basis.

Tickets available at 940-565-4001
or in Art 107 (Dean's office).

Transportation to the lecture will be provided.
Buses leave the Art Building at 5:00 pm. sharp.

Brad Cloepfil, Founder and Principal of Allied Works, is the recent recipient of the American Institute of Architects Built Honor Award for designing the Booker T. Washington High School for the Performing and Visual Arts in Dallas. He is a leading architect in the nation for museums and cultural spaces and will discuss designing arts facilities for the 21st century.

The Patsy R. and Raymond D. Nasher Lecture Series in Contemporary Sculpture and Criticism was endowed to honor the Nashers by their daughter, Mrs. Nancy Nasher, son-in-law Mr. David Haemisegger, granddaughters Sarah and Isabel Haemisegger, and grandson David Haemisegger.

The purpose of the Lecture Series is to present outstanding speakers in sculpture and/or criticism to students and faculty in the College of Visual Arts and Design at the University of North Texas, along with a wider public audience. The series includes lectures, short courses, seminars and similar formats in perpetuity.