SUGGESTED GRADUATE ADMISSIONS TIMELINE FOR US RESIDENTS
(For international, please refer UNT-International website regarding admission timeline)
Last Updated: December 2017

Since admission to Graduate School involves submission of materials not only from the applicant, but testing services (official GRE scores), other colleges and universities (official transcripts), and outside professionals (letters of recommendation), the application process is very time consuming. More time than expected should be allotted to make the departmental application deadline. The following are suggested dates to keep applicants on track:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>For entry in the:</th>
<th>Fall or Summer Semester</th>
<th>Spring Semester</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Date by which you should submit graduate application form, official printed transcripts, and application fee to the Toulouse Graduate School (On average, the Graduate School takes one full month to fully process an application and forward it to the department for review by the faculty in the intended major.)</td>
<td>Jan. 1</td>
<td>Sept. 1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Date by which you should have taken the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) to have the official scores received by UNT in time to be included with your application. (The Analytical Writing section is hand-graded, so receipt of scores usually takes a minimum of 2 weeks.)</td>
<td>Jan. 15</td>
<td>Sept. 15</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Department of Design Application Deadline (Date by which all required materials must be in your file for review by the faculty in your intended major, including GRE scores and the forwarded application packet from the Graduate School.)</td>
<td>Jan. 1</td>
<td>Oct. 1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Date by which you will likely hear from the Department regarding your admission status.</td>
<td>Mar. 1</td>
<td>Nov. 1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Date by which those who have been accepted into the program should respond in writing regarding their intent to attend.</td>
<td>Apr. 1</td>
<td>Dec. 1</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Should your application not be complete by the Departmental deadline and/or by the time the faculty collect the applications to review them, your application may be updated for entry in a following semester, and you will be contacted concerning what materials need to be submitted to complete your application.
